Wreckage of the L&N's 405 lies scattered over approximately 200 feet of track between Washington and Citizen Streets in Bay St. Louis. The derailment occurred at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night and was heard by some residents nearly a mile away. Cause of the derailment is believed to have resulted from a faulty switch. —Photo by Jake Jacob

Switch shatters under train, eight rail cars tear up tracks

By JAKE JACOB

A broken switchpoint has been cited as the probable cause of a major train derailment occurring at 10:30 p.m., Tuesday in Bay St. Louis. Blocking the Louisville and Nashville Railroad's mainline for some seven and a half hours, the wreck involved westbound freight 405 as it switched to clear the mainline for eastbound highballing 414.

A total of eight cars were involved in the disaster, all in the rear section of the 125 car train.

Two of the units, tankers, crashed upside down into a ditch adjacent to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Laneaux, 400 Washington Street. Two other tankers finished up on their sides, half in the ditch and half across the tracks, a piggy back unit, jackknifed across the mainline - crushing its eight-wheeled closed box trailer cargo riding fifth wheel to New Orleans, two additional tankers derailed but stayed upright, as did a box car, believed to be the first unit involved.

According to R. F. Shu, L&N trainmaster, out of Mobile, present at the wreck scene on Wednesday, probable cause for the derailment was the, still officially under investigation, broken switchpoint.

Located between Sycamore and Washington Streets the switch is used to let trains enter or leave the passing track on the north side of the mainline. Shu said it appears the switch broke under the weight of the train as it was moving through between 10 and 15 miles per hour.

Apparently parting between the passage of the leading and rear sets of bogies on a box car, the switch permitted the car's left wheel of the rear set to lead onto the mainline, while the right hand wheels followed the switch line. This action, in effect, pulled the right wheels off the track causing them to drop off the rail and ride the ties.

Bouncing over the switch "X", the derailed unit frogged across Washington Street quickly causing further derailments and the ultimate train separation.

A parting airhose activated the emergency brakes throughout the length of the train, a safety factor that minimized the loss.

No injuries were sustained by either the train crew nor to persons within the town.

The main dispatch office of L&N in Mobile was immediately informed of the disaster by the train crew.

Mrs. Laneaux was the first to contact local authorities.

clear the track arrived Bay St. Louis at 3:50 a.m. and mainline operations were restored by 5:40 a.m.

Bay Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie said he was summoned to the scene with his crew after police and emergency units received confirmation of the disaster.

"We immediately set about determining the contents of the overturned and damaged tank and box cars to see if any hazard existed to area residents," Gavagnie said.

"The train crew was very cooperative, quickly reviewing their waybills once we had the car numbers. "The tank cars were all empty and everybody, train crew and local authorities alike, breathed easier," Gavagnie reported.

Trainmaster Shu confirmed that no dangerous cargoes were onboard the train.

"Train crews are always told if a potentially hazardous load is being carried by the train," Shu said.

L&N Divisional Superintendent I. L. Bell, and his assistant, P. W. Ayers, both of Mobile, were also on hand at the scene early Wednesday morning but were unavailable for comment later in the day.

Shu said the railroad would clean up all the area around the wreck including the spilled, plastic fragment cargo of the smashed piggy back trailer unit.

He said the mainline had been fully restored, the switch track was in the process of being rebuilt, and a new switch is to be installed.

The trainmaster confirmed that the tanker cars had previously contained, anhydrous ammonia, a toxic substance, but that at the time of the accident presented no danger.

"These cars will be repaired at the L&N yards and put back into service," Shu said.

He said that by the time he, and the wrecker train arrived from Mobile, local authorities had closed off all streets leading to the accident scene and were exercising excellent crowd control.

Gavagnie said others responding to the alarm included elements from the Bay Police Department, Hancock County Civil Defense, Mississippi Highway Patrol, and the Hancock County Sheriff's office.

Welfare worker abducted at gunpoint

A 15-year-old youth has been confined in the Hancock County Detention center on charges of auto theft and threatening the life of an individual following the Tuesday afternoon gunpoint abduction of Ms. Annie Fields, 25, a social worker employed by the Hancock County Welfare Office.

Ronnie Peterson, special investigator with the sheriff's office, said the incident occurred when the pair arrived at the detention center on a return trip from Poplarville where the youth had been living with foster parents.

According to Ms. Fields' statement, the youth pulled a .25 calibre revolver from his jacket and told her to back the car out of the driveway "because he wasn't going to the detention center."

She said Col. Randolph Bourgeois, youth court counselor, was leaving the building at that time and called out asking where she was going. She said she replied "I can't talk now, I've got to go."

With the gun still pointed at her, she said the youth told her to drive along Beach Blvd. to Waveland and added that if she cooperated she would not be hurt.

Peterson said Ms. Fields was told to get out of the car at a location on Waveland Ave., and that her car would be wrecked if she called police.

She said the youth told her he was going to Texas and reiterated that he had no intention of returning to the detention center.

Disregarding the warning, Ms. Fields said she telephoned Bourgeois of what had happened after the youth drove away and then waited for Bourgeois to come for her with a car.

The two were returning to Waveland when they stopped for gas at Binegar's 603 Exxon Service Station and Mrs. Fields spotted her own car. It was later discovered the youth had stopped there to get gasoline and cigarettes using a credit card he had found in the car.

The youth was apprehended approximately 30 minutes following the abduction, on Highway 90 west of Ramada Inn. Patrol cars from the Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments and the sheriff's department chased the youth for a short distance before he was apprehended.

Peterson said the pistol was discovered on the front seat of the car. The case has been referred to the county youth court.

Eye witness recalls

"freight train aiming at the house"

By JAKE JACOB

Tornadoes were the subject of the late evening weather report Tuesday and to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Laneaux, of 400 Washington Street it sounded as though the granddaddy of them all was coming at them - while they sat in their living room watching television.

Mrs. Laneaux looked out the window not really knowing what she would see but prepared for the unexpected.

What she did see was a freight train tanker car coming right at her out of the night.

Screaming to her husband she headed for the telephone.

Mr. Laneaux looked out the living room window in time to witness "a steady stream of freight cars" heading off the tracks right into the house.

Fortunately the cars nicked the ground, spun around, overturned and ploughed a furrow along the ditch.

"When they stopped rolling you could really hear the quiet," Mr.

Laneaux said.

Two of the units finished up just inches from the fence. The balance came to rest "within leannin' distance."

Laneaux said the Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie was soon on the scene advising them both to "move out" should they notice anything unusual about the cars, like vapor, or experience any unusual smells.

"We didn't get any sleep at all Tuesday," Laneaux said.

"First of all came this terrible racket. Then these big bangs, shaking the house and nearly giving my wife a heart attack."

"Right after the wreck people from the neighborhood came up to see what was going on and right after the wrecker arrived and blew its whistle all night."

Mrs. Laneaux wasn't available for a comment Tuesday. She had wisely departed the scene and gone to visit her sister, Mrs. Henrietta Meggs, in Waveland.

Rumsfeld gives OK to move

By DAN BARBER

WASHINGTON -- Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld Wednesday issued a renewed approval to the Navy and to District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell in favor of the transfer of the Naval Oceanographic Office from the area of the nation's capital to facilities at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

The review of the Navy's move to Hancock County was stipulated in instructions to the Navy by Gesell last Feb. 6 after the court called for a personal review by Rumsfeld of the Navy's amended Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) by April 1.

Rumsfeld's approval Wednesday makes the Navy's transfer virtually a certainty now, it appears.

Although plaintiffs in three suits, who successfully obtained an injunction from Gesell last Dec. 5 from further involuntary transfers by the Navy to NSTL, have two weeks in which to ask for a summary judgment, the legal options of the plaintiffs are steadily diminishing.

Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.) said Wednesday he was extremely pleased with the Secretary's action.

"The Secretary of Defense has now reviewed it (EIS) and has reaffirmed in very good, positive language that decision made last July 25, 1975," Lott said.

Following the Navy's announcement last summer of its intentions to transfer the 1,300 member Oceanographic Office from Suitland, Maryland to NSTL in Hancock County, a wall of outcries were delivered up from the Maryland congressional delegation and from a small but vocal element of the NAVOCEANO employees.

Approvals for the move were however given first from the Secretary of the Navy, the Defense Department, and ultimately President Gerald Ford. Congressional bills were introduced into both houses of Congress next by members of the Maryland delegation to have funding for the transfer cut off but a strong last minute show of strength by U. S. Senator John Stennis and other congressmen aborted that attempt.

Later three suits filed separately with the U. S. District Court in Washington, D. C. by opponents seeking to block the transfer were successful in persuading Judge Gerhard Gesell to issue an injunction against the involuntary transfer of any NAVOCEANO employees to NSTL until the suits were resolved.

The suits filed on behalf of Prince Georges County, members of the American Federation of Government employees local 1028 opposed to the move, and minority workers at NAVOCEANO were later combined.

The Navy failed through a series of hearings before Gesell to have the court injunction lifted, instead with the court setting a timetable for the Navy to follow in preparing a revised impact statement and for Rumsfeld's final recommendation.

Wednesday Lott said he felt the Navy would begin immediately to transfer personnel again.

"I would think that if the judge does rule favorably on this move that the Navy would then begin immediately carrying out their move even though it would be involved in the appeals process."

Lott said he felt the plaintiffs in the suit against the Navy would automatically ask for a summary judgment as a matter of routine, but added he felt a further appeal might not be so certain.

"This thing has been approved by the executive department and the legislative division of the government," Lott said. "And in my opinion and a lot of other people, Judge Gesell got into this in a very extraordinary manner. They certainly could not accuse him of not having been thorough."

Lott added he personally could not see appeals being a viable alternative although "when you are involved in this sort of thing, anything is possible."

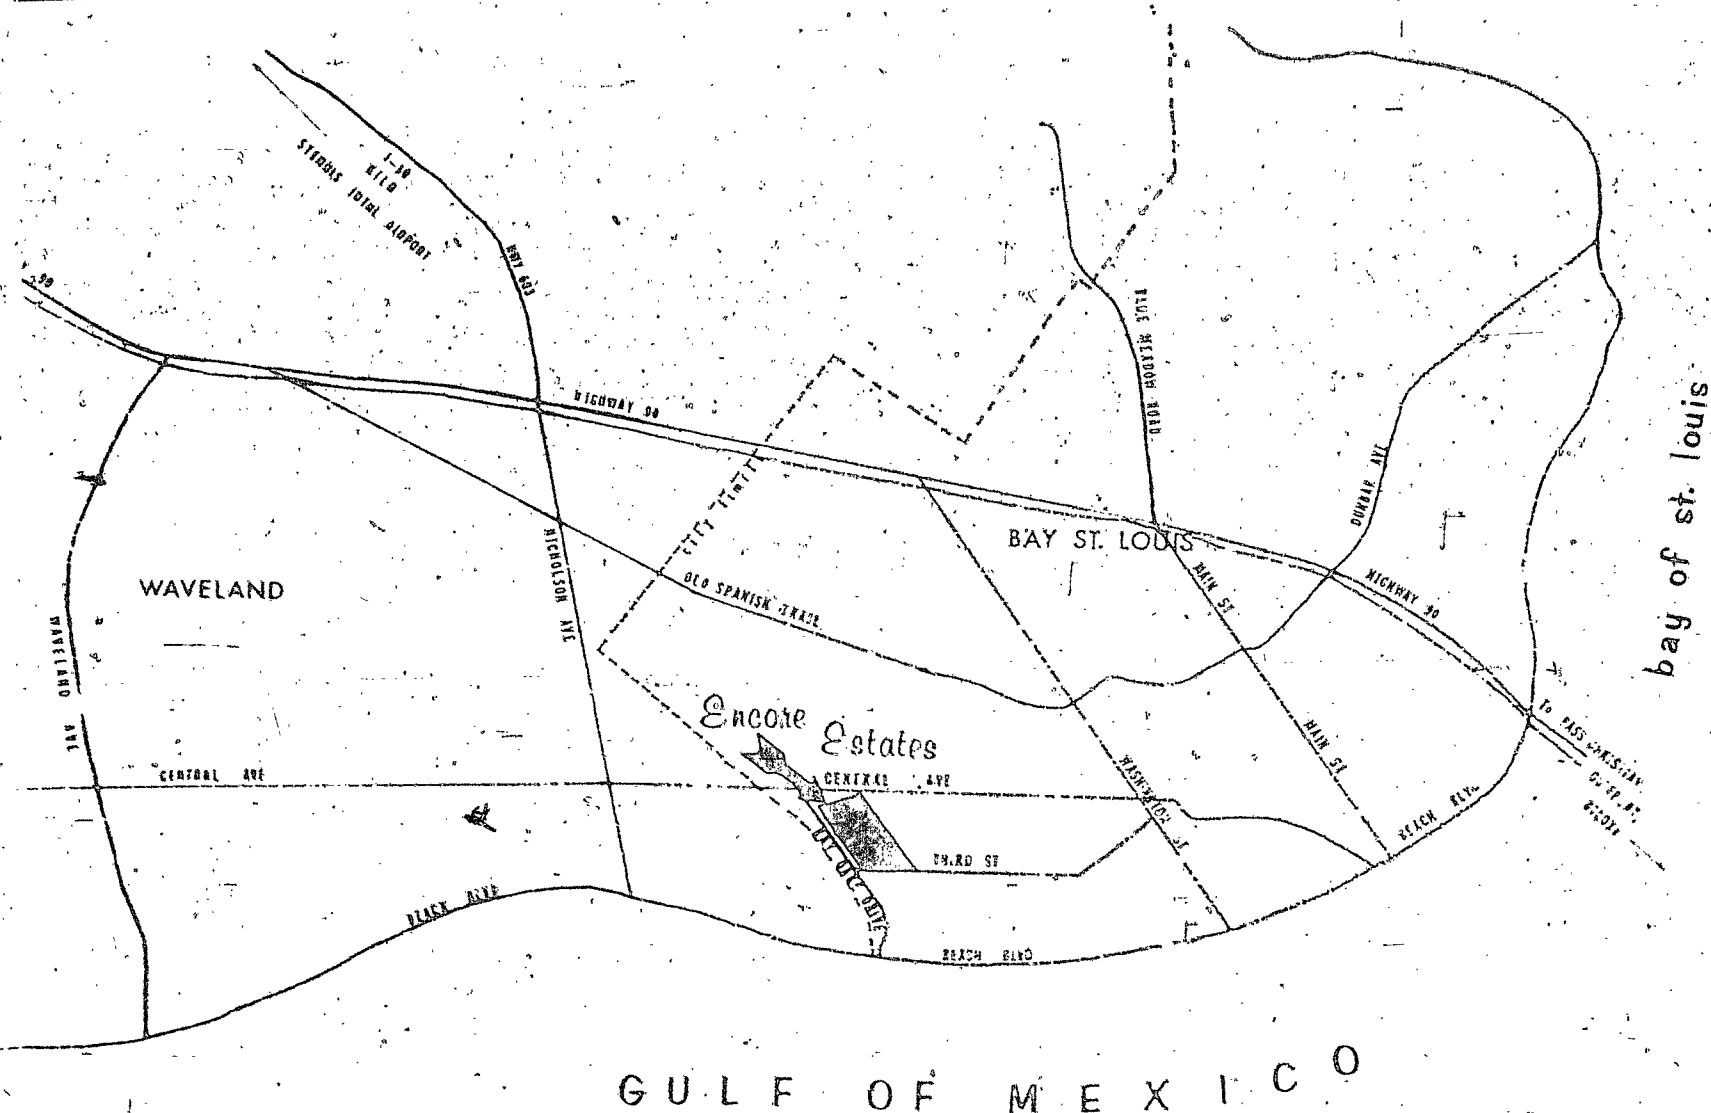

With Rumsfeld's favorable recommendation under their arms, Navy lawyers will now formally file their amended impact statement in court and move to dissolve the preliminary injunction. The plaintiffs then have 15 days (on or before April 15) to move for a summary judgment in response to the motion to dissolve. Should they ask for a judgment, Gesell will set a hearing date for the final resolution of the issues.

Lott said he felt the court would set the hearing date within two weeks of that request.

"Once he (Gesell) has ruled," Lott said Wednesday, "for all intents and purposes the move is approved then. The plaintiffs can appeal but once Judge Gesell makes that final decision he is out of it."

Developers propose $1.5 million subdivision

The Bay St. Louis City Council agreed at a special session this week to recommend a local engineer at the council's regular meeting Monday to study preliminary plans for a new $1.5 million subdivision developed by Encore, Inc., a locally owned corporation.

Located on 14.5 acres between Central Ave. and Third St., Encore Estates will include 28 homes in the $46,000 to $56,000 price range, according to Van A. Schultz of Bay St. Louis, president.

Other principals in the corporation include Terrence M. Feeney of Waveland and Carl J. Heitzman of Bay St.

Louis. Project engineer is Scotty Thomson of Waveland. Schultz and Thomson were prepared to meet with the city's engineer at Tuesday's meeting, but were forced to wait until Monday when the council could not agree on the engineer for the city.

Commissioner Clarence Ladner suggested that Burke and Associates of New Orleans, engineering firm under contract with the city, be called in to review the plans this week, but Mayor Warren Carver objected due to the cost involved.

Carver then moved that Paul Vegas, former member of the city's Planning and Zoning Board, be hired for the project, but withdrew his motion when informed that Vegas had prior interest in the property with another corporation.

Gold Coast Pony Club grooms for show

The third annual Gold Coast Pony Club Horse Show will be held Saturday, April 3 at Little Farm, Landon Road, in Gulfport, Mississippi. The first class will begin at 9 a.m. Championship and Reserve Championship will be awarded in Pony Hunter, Junior Hunter, Preliminary Jumper, Pleasure Horse, Shultz emphasized the necessity of expediting the matter, claiming "the time frame is now right due to new industries moving into the area."

He said the plans had been approved by HUD, FHA, and VA, and added that it would take approximately two years for the project to be completed.

Limit Rider, Amateur Owner, and Training Horse Divisions. Silver and five ribbons will be awarded in all classes, and Championship and Reserve Championship silver in all divisions. Miscellaneous classes include Gambler's Choice, walk-Trot Class, and Lead-line.

Perry Gibson elected park commission chairman

Perry Gibson of Waveland has been elected chairman of the Mississippi Park Commission.

Manager of the Bay St. Louis operation of Mississippi Power Co., Gibson is a director and immediate past president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and currently heads its committee on tourist development.

He was co-chairman of the 1975 Coastwide Positive Economic Programs (PEP) Committee, and is a director and second vice president of its successor organization, the Coast Council, an economic development group including representatives of the eight Gulf Coast chambers of commerce.

A colonel on the staff of Gov. Cliff Finch, Gibson is a director and member of the executive committee of the South Mississippi Tourist Promotion Council and a Baptist deacon.

Husband and Wife arrested after marijuana found

Earl Tedford, 37, and his wife, Barbara Jean Tedford, 34, both of Leetown community, are under $1,500 bond each in Hancock County Jail on charges of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia and cultivation of marijuana. The two were arrested

Saturday night at approximately 10 p.m. when sheriff's department deputies, acting on a tip from an informant, raided their Leetown home and found three to four ounces of marijuana, five containers of marijuana plants, and assorted paraphernalia including cigarette papers and water pipes.

The two will appear before Judge Horatio Frierson for a preliminary hearing at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

EXPERT YEAR AROUND SERVICE

Phone service increasing

Due to increasing requests for telephones and a growing number of local calls, South Central Bell is now in the process of adding switching equipment in the Bay St. Louis exchange.

F. M. Kyle Jr., Gulf Coast district manager, said the equipment should be tested early in the second quarter, and cut into service during June.

"This new call-handling capacity will meet our growth needs predicted until May, 1977, in the Bay St. Louis exchange," he said.

Pass Post 5931 observes Bicentennial

Post 5931 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Pass Christian will begin a week-long observance of the Bicentennial April 25 to conclude May 1, the date the organization traditionally marks as Loyalty Day, it was announced this week by V.F.W. Commander-in-Chief Thomas C. Walker.

Each of the seven days will feature a special phase of Post 5931's activities in the community Walker said.

He said April 25 has been designated as Religious Freedom Day, and all clergymen in the city have been asked to devote sermons to "the nation's heritage and to seek new guidelines as we explore the future."

Honor America Day, April 26, will be set aside to pay tribute to citizens of Pass Christian "who have made significant contributions to the betterment of Pass Christian and have displayed devotion to the ideals and principles that have made this nation great," he said.

On April 27, Community Service Day, Post 5931 will undertake a project that will "contribute to the betterment or beautification of Pass Christian," the V.F.W. leader continued.

For Education Day, April 28, the post will present Bicentennial programs in the schools and possibly honor educators, who have shown an awareness of American patriotic ideals.

April 29, Help the Needy Day, will be devoted to Bicentennial programs in hospitals, nursing homes, retirement centers and other activities, Walker noted.

Uniformed Services Day, April 30, has been chosen to honor active duty military servicemen, ROTC cadets and law enforcement personnel for their efforts toward protecting American freedom.

Loyalty Day, authorized by Congress, is the culmination of the week's programs and Post 5931 is planning extensive activities to highlight the occasion, Walker concluded.

Sewing hints save stitches and time

To make buttonholes on knits without snagging the material with the buttonhole attachment, use a piece of clear, heavy celluloid over the buttonhole marking on the material and slide together under the buttonhole attachment. When in correct position for the buttonhole, slide the celluloid out and make the buttonhole. Then, slide the celluloid back under the pressure foot and reposition for the next buttonhole.

Use a seam ripper to make the starting hole in cutting apart buttonholes by making small holes in both ends of the buttonholes. Then, use scissors for the "in-between" areas. This way you never cut beyond the buttonhole.

(Handle seam ripper with care.)

When making a pair of knit slacks, use tricot (lingerie fabric) for the pockets. This retains the fit and ease of the knit fabrics when the tricot is cut with the stretch going across the pocket. Pockets lined with regular fabric in knit pants sometimes bind when you sit.

In a skirt or pants with an elastic waistband, the material sometimes bunches in one spot. To prevent this, stitch through the waistband at right angles in four or five places, usually following a seamline. This anchors the material and also prevents the elastic from rolling. It doesn't interfere with the stretch either.

When doing a hem by hand, take extra stitches as through ending the hem every few inches. It takes a little extra time but if the hem comes loose, these stop points make it unnecessary to re sew the whole hem.

When sewing the facing to a neck edge, armhole, or the front of a jacket you can make it lie much smoother if you press it twice. First, after the facing is sewn to the garment, press it and the seam allowances together away from the garment. Then understitch it press the facing to the inside. Pressing before as well as after understitching gives a much neater finish.

Beef cattlemen attend field day at PRC campus

POPLARVILLE...More than 350 cattlemen from south Mississippi attended the Fourth Annual Beef Cattle and Forage Field Day sponsored by the South Mississippi Research and Extension Center here Monday on the Pearl River College campus.

W.W. Kilby, superintendent of the South Mississippi Branch Station here in Poplarville, said it was the largest group ever to attend. "We started out in the science building auditorium four years ago and it only holds about 80," Kilby said, "today Moody Hall auditorium was running over."

J.W. (Bill) McKie, extension area agronomy specialist and Paul Wildy, president of the Pearl River County Cattlemen Association, opened the meeting. Dr. Roy Burris, MAFES Animal Scientist and head of the Beef Cattle research here at the local experiment station gave a talk on backgrounding and finishing research.

Moderator Graydon E. Elliot, another extension Area Animal Scientist, introduced Malcolm Broome, Beaver Creek Ranch, Seminary and Jerry Lyon, past president of the Mississippi Cattlemen Association as the featured speakers. Both speakers operate large ranches.

Dr. Werner Essig, MAFES Animal Scientist gave a slide presentation on hay packaging systems. Monday afternoon was spent touring the White Sand and McNeil units of the Experiment Station.

Roy Fowler, Pearl River County Agent acted as tour leader.

VA Service Office

Hospitalization and prescriptions available

Veterans are reminded of some basic and important facts about Veterans Administration hospitalization and prescription drugs.

Veterans are eligible for hospitalization if discharged or released from active service under conditions other than dishonorable. It is not necessary for the military service to have been during war time nor ninety days or more, as in the case regarding some V.A. benefits. One day of honorable service is all that is required.

Veterans over 65 years old and those drawing VA pension or requiring treatment for a service connected disability are not required to swear to their inability to pay for medical services outside the VA Hospital.

Veterans Administration Hospital care covers the full range of modern medical services, and VA outpatient treatment is available for all disabilities. Drug treatment is available in specialized drug treatment clinics. One of the best things about VA Medical care is that there is no time limit on veterans making application after separation from service, except for Dental care.

For those veterans who are being supplied with prescriptions for service connected disabilities or veterans drawing additional benefits because of Aid and Attendance or Housebound condition a comparatively new system has been initiated, called Code-Aphone System. This system will allow prescriptions to be called in on a 24-hour basis. It is a Recorder, that at the sound of a "beep" will ask you information as follows:

1. Please spell your last name. 2. State your first name, address, Social Security number and your telephone number.

If you are requesting medication over the Code-Aphone, please give the prescription number from the bottle in which the original prescription was filled. If you cannot read the number, then you may give the doctor's name. If you are going to pick up your medicine at the VA Hospital, you must have a routine slip. This slip can be picked up at the front desk in the outpatient waiting room lobby. If you are not familiar with the recording system, do not give up on your first try. You may re-call and complete your request. This is a long distance call however, or toll call, and is completed each time the operator answers, so you will probably only want to use the Code-Aphone in an emergency.

Do not wait until you are almost out of medicine before you send in your prescriptions to the Pharmacy. The pharmacy has 85,000 prescriptions in its three month period and you will may be late getting to you if you delay sending it in an time. You may send it in two weeks in advance. Be sure to have your name, address and phone number on your application. The number to call for Code-Aphone is 1-601-265-4471 and ask for extension 447.

For information on this and all other Veterans Affairs call 467-5401 or see your County Service Officer in the Court House.

PRC schedules cheerleader tryouts

POPLARVILLE—Pearl River College will hold cheerleader tryouts in the new coliseum Thursday, April 15 at 3:30 p.m. Two places will be open for competition for high school seniors.

Candidates will be judged according to rhythm, appearance, personality, and learning ability. Next year's sophomore cheerleaders will teach each participant a cheer and pom-pom routine.

Each candidate will be responsible for doing a cheer that will display his or her ability. Past cheerleading experience is helpful but not essential.

For more information, contact Ann Morris, cheerleader sponsor, at 795-4931.

Matching grants available for rural communities

State Forester Billy T. Gaddis has announced that the Mississippi Forestry Commission expects to receive approximately $50,000 in federal funds for matching grants to rural communities to assist them in obtaining needed fire fighting equipment.

This program, known as the Rural Community Fire Protection Program, was authorized by Congress in Title IV of the Rural Development Act of 1972. This will mark the second year Mississippi has received funds for this program.

Gaddis stated a maximum limit of $2,000 per community in Federal matching funds has been established in order to assist a greater number of communities. To qualify for a grant the applicant must be able to match the Federal funds requested.

Rural communities of under 10,000 population without adequate fire protection equipment may make application for cost-share assistance under this program.

Additional information on the program may be obtained at the Commission's District Offices located at Tupelo, Philadelphia, Bay Springs, Wiggins, Brookhaven, Rolling Fork, and Elliott, as well as at the State Office in Jackson.

Applications for matching grants must be received by the Forestry Commission at its office in Jackson by May 14, 1976 in order to be considered for approval.

Special markers available free to nation's Medal of Honor dead

The Veterans Administration today announced that special memorial gravestones and markers will be provided to families of deceased Medal of Honor winners as part of the country's Bicentennial program.

VA Administrator, Richard L. Roudebush said the Medal of Honor markers "are intended to bear silent witness to a nation's eternal remembrance of the selfless deeds of these brave Americans."

The special markers will carry an enlarged representation of the Medal of Honor in gold leaf on marble or granite headstones and in bronze on the cast metal markers. The words "Medal of Honor" will also be highlighted by one of these methods, Roudebush said.

The VA Administrator said present headstones and grave markers will be replaced with the memorial devices only with the written approval of the next of kin or the person listed on the cemetery's records.

"Since the VA does not have burial records for many of the Medal of Honor winners who are buried in non-government cemeteries, I am appealing to the families or friends of these men to advise us of their wishes as soon as possible," Roudebush said.

"It will also be of great assistance to us if local historians, or city, county or state officials who know of the location of a Medal of Honor winner's grave will contact any known relatives of the serviceman to alert them concerning this program," Roudebush said.

"I think it would be fitting if we could have all of these stones in place on Memorial Day this year, but to do that we will need the cooperation of everyone who can assist us with information," he added.

Roudebush emphasized that there will be no cost to the families for the memorial headstones or grave markers.

Relatives of deceased Medal of Honor winners who wish to have the present grave markers replaced with the memorial stone should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office, or they may write to the Director, National Cemetery Service.

Veterans Administration, Washington, D.C. 20420.

The Medal of Honor was first awarded in 1863. Since that time 3,400 have been awarded.

Agency records show only 78 Medal of Honor recipients buried in the 103 National Cemeteries under VA control.

ESTATE TAXES

If you've poured your life into a family farm or a family business and have thought about passing it on to your children, you've probably had nightmares about the estate taxes involved in such a transaction.

You have reason to be worried. Estate taxes today can force heirs to sell their farm or business just to pay the taxes, thus destroying the very concept of a family enterprise.

It isn't fair. It isn't helping the future of farms or small businesses one bit. And it's just plain cruel to any family who wants to preserve a business operation or even a home.

Several prospects to alter the estate tax provisions of the Internal Revenue Code have been kicked around Congress for some time now, but I can't say that we're on the verge of correcting the situation. The House Ways and Means Committee, which handles all tax reform, wound up hearings last week on federal estate and gift taxes but little hope is seen for immediate action.

Most of the dissatisfaction with present laws centers around the $60,000 exemption. Under this law, any family may pass along any home or business tax-free up to $60,000.

That presents a major problem to a farm - even a small farm - or any business enterprise that's turned a profit in recent years. Few can say they're worth less than $60,000.

Actually, that $60,000 exemption was set back in 1942, some 34 years ago, and hasn't changed since. 1942! Simple arithmetic will tell you anything worth $60,000 in 1942 is worth better than $200,000 today simply because of inflation.

The President has suggested that Congress increase the estate tax exemption to $150,000 and defer full payment of those taxes for small farmers and businesses for 25 years.

That's a step in the right direction.

I introduced a bill last year to increase the exemption to $185,000 - which sounds high until you figure the cost of equipment and land these days.

A quick look at farm statistics will confirm the kind of problem the average farmer is facing. In 1950 there were 5.6 million American farms; in 1959, four million, and today, only 2.8 million. Similarly, the number of businesses has declined drastically.

And it's due in part to the exorbitant estate tax.

What it means is that millions of Americans have been forced to abandon their farms and businesses to seek entirely new ways of life - simply because they cannot afford to pay this tax.

"My grandparents, parents and we children have worked all our lives to make an honest living," one south Mississippian wrote to me recently. "We have not gone cold or hungry, but have not had luxuries. I am 81 years old, still working. At my death I want my nieces and nephews to enjoy what I have worked for. Not one of them could pay exorbitant taxes and shouldn't!"

"In my opinion," that letter continued, "there should not be an inheritance tax. If you have land or property in a free country and keep it up and pay taxes, you should have the authority to give it to the ones you want TAX FREE."

That senior citizen has a valid point. There's room for question about our present estate tax laws.

That's why I'm supporting the kind of tax revisions that will make it equitable for a family - any family - to prosper and endure.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,
About two weeks past a father from Pass Christian wrote a letter to the Daily Herald Editor to express his dislike for the person who had poisoned his two dogs.

He also brought out the fact that his young son was severely grief stricken over seeing one of his pets die such an agonizing death.

A few days later a man from North Biloxi had an answer for that letter through the same media to all but brag that he had no sympathy for this young boy.

It is my belief that it is parents like these two men that are sending so many of our kids of today to the "dogs". Yes, it is people with this disrespect for the other fellows person and property rights that are yelling "I don't know what is going to happen to the lousy kids of today."

I for one feel sorry for that little boy and the many more just like him. Believe it or not, these kids of today are the potential community leaders of tomorrow; but with the leader ship most of them have today, it is agonizing to think of what they will have to offer their community tomorrow.

Kids all love their dogs. To them it is funny to see their dog chase a pedestrian down the street. They get a "big kick" out of seeing their dog grab at car wheels, and watching them run other kids down the street on their bicycles. They are too occupied with mischief to see the danger. Undoubtedly the parents just look on until something happens to the "loved pet", then in the presence of the bereaved child they scream insults and threats. Consequently the child looks upon you as a monster because you have just taken one of the most important things in his young life away from him, simply because he has never been taught to respect the rights of others.

These hypocritical dog lovers (the parents) are not of any one class of people, you will find one on just about every street.

At long last we have a man out there trying to rid our community of this uncalled for abuse not only of human rights but also to eliminate the abuse to these loving and deserving neglected dumb animals. Mr. Lavoie is not picking on certain colors, pedigrees. Nor is he checking into the financial background. It is come one come all. Too bad we don't have a law saying the negligent owner and not the dog will be carted away.

Let's all chip in and help Mr. Lavoie make our city a better and safer place to live in and at the same time protect these animals that are so dear to the "most" of us.

Editor, Sea Coast Echo,
The letter in recent issue of 3-25-76, written by Mrs. J. Pilet, seems to have gone out too far with her general criticism of dog lovers. Dog loving does not nullify the rights of people who do not love dogs.

Animals roaming at large, getting into mischief, owners of such are in the minority. All dog lovers should not be blamed for the antics of a few.

We who help animals are helping people too. We realize also, a constantly barking dog can be a nuisance, but there are reasonable methods that can be used to quiet a noisy dog at night, when it isn't always easy or possible to consult a Veterinarian for professional advice.

For instance: a cup of warm milk, or one Bufferin to a healthy dog, will bring rest and relaxation. Try taking the animal inside the home for the night.

This particular case of dog barking has been blown out of all proportions, as for noise per se, we agree that noises harmful to physical health and mental serenity, such as tree cutting, tractor action, bull dozing, motor cycles, horn honking, hard rock music, welding, screeching auto brakes and power mowing. Dog barking seems trivial in comparison. Sometimes the personality and idiosyncrasy of a perpetual complainer, should be considered, in many cases of this kind.

All we ask is to be fair and we shall try to alleviate unfavorable situations to the best interests, not only of animals, but to people, who in the last analysis are supposed to have a mentality surmounting that of any dumb beast.

The noises fore mentioned in this letter are considered necessary, for progress and civic order, however, headaches, irritation and discomfort often follow.

Lets give the poor canines a break and let their nature be controlled by humans who love them or perhaps sensibly tolerate them for the good of society.

Thanking you kindly for publication.

Lott reminds constituents to return questionnaire

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congressman Trent Lott (R-Miss.) this week reminded Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District residents to complete and return his fourth annual questionnaire as soon as possible.

Lott said that, although the March 31 deadline is still in effect, he would continue to accept and review any questionnaire returned after that date. He plans to tally the results and report back to his constituents in a regular newsletter in late April or early May.

"We've had an excellent response," he said. "I think it's important that all Americans have an opportunity to voice their views to their elected officials. The views of my constituents have

S.G. Thigpen, South Mississippi's prolific recorder of history and foremost chronicler by word and picture, was recently featured in the Dec. 23, 1975 edition of this paper by columnist Joe Pilet. The 85-year-old Pileayune author has received national recognition for his folksy books and has recently completed "Old Days and Old Ways", his fifth historical publication. Other books by Thigpen include "Next Door To Heaven," "Work and Play in Grandpa's Day," "Pearl River-Hiway to Glory Land," and "A Boy in Rural Mississippi." Last Oct. 9 the National Awards Committee of the American Association for State and Local History voted a certificate of commendation to Thigpen for his promotion of state and local history.

Out of all the things sold in stores when I grew up in the late 1890s and early 1900s, the one thing most desired and most prized by boys, was a pocket knife. Though money was extremely scarce back then, every boy I knew in my young days managed, somehow, to possess one.

The old time barlow one-blade knife with horn handle could be bought in those days for 15 cents to 25 cents. The same knife costs about 15 to 20 times that much today. I wanted a knife the worst way when I was 8 to 10-years-old but my mother was afraid, I'd cut myself with it and put me off, but after my prolonged, persistent nagging she gave me two dozen eggs and told me to go the nearby country store and get a knife. I traded the two dozen eggs for a 20 cents one-blade barlow knife. Though cheap, the knife proved to be a good one.

Back in those days boys had to make, often improvise, the things used in their play and work. My father impressed upon me that an essential part in owning a knife was to keep it sharp and in good cutting order, an art that many people, including most boys, do not know today—a lost art you might call it. The proper way to sharpen a knife is directly opposite the correct way to sharpen a razor. A knife has to have what is known as a chisel edge to do a good job. To get a chisel edge, the back part of the blade has to be slightly elevated and the edge pushed into and along the surface of the whet rock or grindstone, first one side and then the other. A knife sharpened in this way will keep its edge much longer than if sharpened like a razor.

A country boy in my day had literally dozens of uses for a pocket knife. He used it in season for cutting and peeling sugar cane, the delicious chewing of which is lost to most boys in these modern days. He used his knife to make whistles from wild cane that grew in low places. A whistle that could be heard for long distances was easy to make with a joint of this cane by cutting it and trimming it in a certain way. With one of these whistles I made, I could communicate with a boy my age who lived about a half mile away.

A boy's pocket knife was used to fashion Indian bows and arrows from small pieces of split hickory. His knife was used to cut strings for the bows from cowhide that had been tanned and cured on the farm, and for cutting and forming a sling shot from a thin piece of lumber. I used my barlow knife more than once to lance a boil (we called it a "rising").

Many a time I used my barlow to whittle with. If you were a country boy, you'll know what that means. The pocket knife was used to peel ripe peaches, apples, pears, for cutting and slicing watermelons, for picking the delectable meat from hickory and other nuts. A good pocket knife was the country boy's most cherished, most used, most valuable possession.

The old time knife was used to cut fishing poles, from dogwood trees and dogwood sprouts, and to cut wild cane for fishing poles, which we would hang by tying the small end to a high rafter on the barn, letting the heavy end hang down to make perfectly straight fishing poles that would reach across some of our small nearby streams.

The good old pocket knife was used to dress game birds, rabbits, squirrels and other game in preparation for the table, an art country boys learned early in life but an art modern boys, rarely, if ever, learn.

The barlow knife was used to cut selected whip stocks and to make kites and small toys and other things. It was handy at hog killing time, and was used to trim fingernails and toenails.

Not in my case, but on occasion, a barlow knife was used as a weapon or for protection in case of need, which brings to mind what a big lanky boy of about 18 told me when I was showing him a pocket knife in my hardware store back more than 50 years ago. He looked carefully at several of the knives on display. He opened them and felt the sharp edges. Since he was being so careful in his examination of the knives, thinking I might help him, I asked what he was going to use the knife for.

He said, "Some of them boys been picking at me every Saturday night at the frolic. If they don't let me along, I'm gonna gut some of them."

He bought a rather long blade knife. With it, I gave him a little lecture on being careful and not getting himself into trouble.

A few weeks later, this same young man came into my store, and I asked him how he had gotten along. He said, "When one dem boys come like he gonna start picking at me again, I pulled out my knife, opened it up and without saying anything, started cutting my fingernails. When dat boy saw dat knife, he didn't bother me anymore."

At another country frolic about 50 years ago, a boy was slightly cut with a knife in a fight. He was asked, "Did you get cut in the fracas?"

"No," he replied, "but I would have if I had not turned around."

The oldest living American, Charlie Smith, 133, makes his home at a Convalescent Center in Bartow, Fla. Charlies, who has lived through 29 of our 38 presidential administrations, said: "I ain't never voted for no president. Had plenty of opportunities but there ain't never been no president I liked enough to vote for." Tempted by tall tales of fritter-trees growing all over America, Charlie, at the age of 12, boarded a slave ship in Liberia and was bought in New Orleans by a Texas rancher. Blue-eyed, black skinned Charlie boasts three names, a colorful assortment of jobs, and three wives. (One was a court-house marriage). In an interview with Sam Merrill these words of wisdom were given by Charlie, "Enjoy your money while you livin', you sho' kaint enjoy it when you day'd."

Speaking of electric energy and the cost thereof - the Liberty Torch held by the Statue of Liberty is illuminated by 19 lamps with a total of 13,000 watts. The base of the statue is reached by an elevator which brings visitors from the ground floor up through the pedestal - a distance of about 150 feet. With rising energy prices it must cost a "New Colossus" to lift that lamp beside the golden door.

A proud page in American History was provided by two Quakers living in Philadelphia. Benjamin Tucker and his son William Ellis Tucker developed a formula for making porcelain that was translucent, heat resistant and hard. In 1827 William Tucker received a prize at the Franklin Institute for "the best specimen of porcelain to be made in Pennsylvania." The next year he won a silver medal for the "best porcelain made in the United States." A Tucker pitcher was then priced at about 38 cents, and an ornate vase brought as much as $1.50. Authentic Tucker ware, rare and ornate, brings hundreds of dollars at auctions. It is a coveted collector's item. The Tucker's, once importers of China, achieved the goal of producing a creation to rival foreign ware. Tucker ware was exported to Europe. In the year 1838 the factory closed.

The Babe Ruth program has proven to be a big success in the Bay, attracting more and more boys each year. SPORTS SHORTS - The Pass Christian Isles Golf Club will hold their annual club championship this year on two weekends April 10-11 and April 24-25 for both men and women.

The format for play will be as follows: Players will be seeded in flights according to handicap. No qualifying rounds will be played. Registration at clubhouse.

First round losers Saturday, April 10 will make up consolation flights Sunday. Those who lose both Saturday and Sunday will automatically go into 36 holes medal play, at full handicap, on April 24-25.

Tee off time will be 1 p.m. each day. Matches may be played earlier by agreement. Champions will be crowned and prizes distributed Sunday, April 25 at 5 p.m.

Gulf Area Sports Car Association (GASCA) will present an autocross Sunday with timed runs starting at noon. Registration will be from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at Keesler Air Force Base. Instruction will be available for all novice drivers.

Hancock North Central Coach, Joe Williford is to be commended for being the first to field a baseball team at that school. "Most of our players are football players," Williford admits, but the effort to get HNC in a baseball program is a big first step. The Hawks are also fielding a track team this year.

in the 15-year-olds league. Those born on or after Aug. 1, 1961 and prior to Aug. 1, 1962 will play in the 14-year-olds league, and those born on or after Aug. 1, 1962 and prior to Aug. 1, 1963 will play in the 13-year-olds league.

League play will begin on Monday, May 17. Schedules will be released later, according to league officials.

An organizational meeting of the Bay St. Louis Men's Softball League is set for 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 6 in Valena C. Jones gymnasium, according to Ronnie LaFontaine, league president.

LaFontaine said all persons interested in entering a team or playing for the league should try to attend this session.

Further information is available from the president at 467-3994.

Had another rainy weekend with winds blowing pretty high each day. Fishing is better when there is no wind, especially for fresh water fish. When fly fishing or casting, calm banks are the best. Fish can see the baits better and hit them ferociously. This pertains mostly to surface bugs and plugs. Salt water fish hit best when fishing on the bottom.

We all know that when still fishing, dead or live shrimp is the best bait to use. However speckle trout, red fish and flounders prefer live minnows or live shrimp if they can be gotten. Again we say that when still fishing for bass and perch, live minnows, small crayfish, tadpoles or anything that moves is hard bait to beat. Now that spring is just around the corner, it is no effort to get earth worms, grub worms, and other types of bugs for bait. Even roaches make a wonderful bait for bass and perch.

The success of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission's turkey stocking program will give Louisiana turkey hunters this year both a longer season and a wider area in which to hunt than last year, J. Burton Angelle, director of the commission, said this week.

The season for gobblers only will run from March 27 to April 25 in the areas described in the 1975-76 digest of hunting, fishing, and trapping regulations.

Now is the time to start that spring garden. A few tomato, egg plant and pepper bushes will furnish all these vegetables for the summer months. You can get the plants already started. Use plenty of fertilizer is the advice of Norman Benigno, an expert on raising vegetables. Not much of a fisherman, though.

As stated before, now is the time to go still fishing for bass and perch as they are beginning to spawn. Find a spot where they are spawning, anchor the boat near the bank and pull them in. Some of our largest perch are blue gills, goggle-eyes, lake runners and sac-a-lait. Chumming with cottontail cake, cooked grits or rice will lead baitfish to an area and pan fish will hang around in one spot. Other perch found locally are the white and black crappie. They are larger members of the perch family and are excellent eating fish and easy to catch. Of course there are over 100 species of perch, too numerous to mention.

The wild turkey season will open soon. There are plenty of turkey hunters in Hancock County and some of the best.

Turkey hunting is an art in itself. Understand that wild turkeys were first domesticated by Indians in Southern Mexico. Our local birds today came from the original Mexican birds. In this month's issue of the "Louisiana Conservationist" is an article on turkey hunting well worth reading. North America's largest game bird is the wild turkey. We associate wild turkeys with Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. Any hunter is proud to brag about shooting a wild turkey. It is wonderful hunting.

Leroy Pete Strong returned to the Bay from Columbus, Miss., and brought some fish with him. He and his son caught 11 flounders and five red fish up one of our bayous, the other day. Both are good fishermen.

The Bay-Waveland Gun and Rod Club held its regular supper-meeting Monday night of this week. It was a crayfish boil with all the trimmings. A committee of members did the cooking. Part of this committee were, Larry Roman, Louis Decell, Hake Ogden, Ray Garner and Wop Glover. This club is composed of hunters and fishermen. If you are not a member you should join. The club meets regularly and have a different supper with each meeting, prepared by members. It's a lot of fun and informative about hunting and fishing, etc.

Everett Cruvat does salt water fishing using mostly artificial baits. Was telling us of the nice ones he has been catching. Keep up the good work, Everett.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Think I have the right picture this time. It is of Mickey Demoran who does all kinds of fishing. He does mostly salt water fishing and gets his share of the finny tribe. He and his father go regularly. Give me some dope, Mickey.

PER CAPITA PERSONAL INCOME — Hancock County failed to match the state average in per capita personal income, according to unpublished data from the Bureau of Economic Analysis presented in the R & D Center's recently revised "Handbook of Selected Data for Mississippi." Although 20 counties exceeded the state average, none achieved the average per capita personal income figure of the United States. Only six Mississippi counties managed to reach the $4,000 plus mark. St. Clare's Parish News

Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish, Waveland, held its monthly meeting March 23 in Parish Hall with Monsignor John Scanlon offering the opening prayer and Mrs. James Hubert, prefect, conducting the business session.

Mrs. Clarisse Villere, new member, was welcomed by the group.

In the absence of Mrs. Charles Shambley, recording secretary, minutes of the February meeting were read by Mrs. Roland Galivan, vice prefect. Reports were given by Mrs. Adrien Chagnard, treasurer; Mrs. Leslie Galivan, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edward Canady, publicity and Mrs. William Faulkner, sewing chairman.

Mrs. Hubert discussed plans for the annual fair and asked members with coupons from Luzianne coffee, tea or R.T. coffee they wish to donate to send them to her, or to any Sodality member. Coupons can also be placed in the box in front of the cry room in St. Clare Church. All coupons will be redeemed for articles for the fair.

Mrs. Henry Berry was appointed chairman for the April luncheon-social, according to Mrs. Leslie Galivan, social chairman.

Mrs. Frank Lotz hosted the social hour for the 25 members attending.

April activities for the Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish will include monthly communion Sunday, April 4, 9 a.m. Mass; monthly luncheon and social Wednesday, April 14, 12:30 p.m., Parish Hall, and monthly meeting, 2 p.m., Tuesday, April 27, Parish Hall.

Two farmer's markets added

Two additional farmer's markets will be established in Biloxi and Gulfport this summer, according to the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Buck Ross said farmer's markets have proved to be "an excellent means for farmers to market surplus vegetables while providing a valuable service to consumers."

Farmers interested in supplying summer vegetables to the Coast Farmer's markets should contact Bill Lee, 1106 Stuyvesant Dr., Piquette, Miss. 39163.

HOPE advocates additional funding for highway program

Over $103 million in planned highway construction in Mississippi will not be completed unless additional funding is provided, according to George McLean, chairman of HOPE (Highways Our Pressing Emergency.)

McLean said this week that inflation and a lack of growth in tax revenues have reduced the amount of bonds which the state can sell to carry out its $600 million highway corridor program.

Original goal of the program, which began in 1972, was complete 1,200 miles of four lane highways in the state by 1983. McLean said at the end of June, 1975, there were 235 miles completed or under contract.

"Our state's leadership is obligated to provide the funds necessary to keep this program alive," McLean said.

"Unless this is done very soon, the highway construction work planned for July 1977 through June 1978 cannot be carried out."

In pointing out the economic impact of the highway corridor construction program, McLean emphasized that in 1975 the highway department paid out a total of $147 million in construction. This expenditure provided 12,000 jobs in the state and returned $10 million in tax revenues he said.

"The loss of $103 million in 1977-78 highway construction would have an immediate and drastic effect in lost jobs and tax revenues. Equally important would be the loss to the economy by not having the benefit of the four-lane corridors," stated McLean.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors
Bay St. Louis, MS 39520

Gentlemen:

I have reviewed the internal accounting control procedures including the accounting records and supporting documents of the Purchase Clerk of Hancock County, MS, that I considered relevant to the criteria established by House Bill 975, laws of 1974, and House Bill 670, laws of 1975, of the Mississippi legislature. My review included tests of compliance with such procedures during the period of October 1, 1974, through September 30, 1975.

I understand that these procedures are now, March, 1976, materially in conformity with the criteria referred to in the first paragraph of this report and are considered by the Board of Supervisors to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the provisions of House Bill 975, laws of 1974, and House Bill 670, laws of 1975, and that procedures not in conformity therewith indicate inadequacy for such purposes.

However, at the time of my original review of the year ended September 30, 1975, conditions existed, as described below, which I believe to be material weaknesses in relation to the criteria referred to in the first paragraph of this report and therefore, in my opinion, the purchasing records and internal accounting control procedures for the period of October 1, 1974, through September 30, 1975, were not in compliance with the criteria described in the first paragraph.

During the period of October 1, 1974, through September 30, 1975, the Purchase Order Docket and the Purchase Requisition Docket that were maintained were not in full compliance with the criteria as described in the first paragraph. Furthermore, I found that not all purchases were covered by a purchase order or an acceptable bid.

In December, 1975, these discrepancies were called to the attention of the Board of Supervisors, and they promptly took action to correct the discrepancies and to conform to the criteria referred to in the first paragraph.

I reviewed the procedures again in March, 1976, found that they are now adequate for the purposes of the Board of Supervisors, and are now in compliance in all material respects with the requirements of House Bill 975, laws of 1974, and House Bill 670, laws of 1975.

Respectfully submitted,

County agent notes

Pesticide seminars to be held

By JOHN SMITH

A training meeting for Hancock County farmers, orchardists, ranchers or other applicators of pesticides designed for restricted use will be held as follows:

April 5 and 12 - Hancock North Central School, 7:15 p.m.

April 6 and 13 - Agricultural Center Building, Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis-7:15 p.m.

April 26, 1976 - Agricultural Center Building, Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis-1:30 p.m. - 5 p.m. (For those people who missed the first training meetings and want to be certified private applicators)

The training program is in compliance with the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act as amended by Congress in 1972. The act requires that all applicators who use restricted-use pesticides be certified. This responsibility was designated to the states by Congress with the Environmental Protection Agency serving in the administration of the federal law.

To be in compliance with federal laws and regulations, the Mississippi Legislature in 1975 passed a state law which insured that pesticide applicators would have an opportunity to buy and use restricted-use pesticides.

The comprehensive training program, designed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, will include instruction in (1) Laws and Regulations; (2) Label, Safety and Environment; (3) Pests and Pesticides; and (4)

Application Equipment and Technique.

I urge all applicators in Hancock County who use restricted-use pesticides to attend this training. In addition to insuring the applicator the opportunity to buy and use these restricted-use pesticides, the training will also insure that users have the competence to handle these pesticides without causing danger to themselves, the public or the environment. The program will allow for continued use of certain products that might otherwise be withdrawn because of their potential danger.

Portuguese pianist to perform

Maria Jose Morais, Portuguese concert pianist, will make her American recital debut April 4, at 3 p.m. at the Jefferson Davis Junior College Fine Arts Auditorium, Gulfport.

She will perform works by Bach, de Falla, and Chopin. Tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for students are available at Werlein's for Music and Mississippi Music, Edgewater Mall, Broussard's Music, and at the door.

Miss Morais gave her first public performance when she was four. She played her first public recital when she was seven and at nine she played a Mozart piano concerto. At 10, she was featured soloist at the Beethoven First Piano Concerto with the Lisbon Radio Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Morais graduated with highest honors from the Portuguese National School of Music, and was awarded the Gulbenkian Foundation Scholarship to study abroad.

Since 1968 she has been a student of Jeanne Marie Darre, the distinguished French pianist and teacher. She has also studied with Nakita Magaloff in Geneva and Fanny Waterman in England.

Overall winner

Patty Payne started work on her winning project last November. She received the tricolor award for her giant sized illustrated booklet on the life of Joan of Arc.

First place models

Katherine Ross followed a picture of an Alsatian home in her French book to construct her winning model.

Bay High junior wins best overall in French fair

Patty Payne, Bay High School junior and French Club reporter, won the tri-color award for the best overall exhibit at the school's French Language Fair Monday. Miss Payne's exhibit was a giant-sized illustrated booklet on the life of Joan of Arc.

In the Models category, a tie for first place went to Daphne Mitchum for a matchstick model of the Eiffel Tower, and Katherine Ross, who built an Alsatian home with a bakery on the ground floor.

Pam Smith won second place for a model of a house in Burgundy; Joe Langenbacker, third place, for a model of a modern French home with handmade furnishings; and honorable mentions went to Gerry Townsend and Scott Thomas, both of whom built models of the Moulin Rouge and Dennis Freeman, for his display of an advertising tower and bookstand.

A portrait of the young Napoleon won first place for Michelle Hansey in the Art category. Second place went to Joye Buquoi for a stained glass exhibit and third place to Dale Holt for an oil painting of a village in the Alps.

Honorable mentions were awarded to Brenda Yennie for a stained glass window and Michelle LaFontaine for a comparison of several styles of French art.

In the Research category, Patty Payne and Carolyn Ferrell tied for first place. Miss Payne's exhibit was the previously mentioned booklet and Miss Ferrell's exhibit was on Van Gogh.

Melinda Smith won second place for an illustrated booklet on French nursery rhymes and Donna Bielstein won third place for a display on the country's geographical aspects. Honorable mention went to Starlett Hollis for a display guide to French perfumes.

Daphne Mitchum built a replica of the Eiffel Tower with matchsticks.

In the Handicraft and Sewing category, Audrey Wright won first place for a costume, which she modeled, and research of Burgundy. Annette Scianna won second place for an embroidered panel from the Bayeux Tapestry and Pam Sellers placed third for a Fleur de Lis quilt. Lori Dickerson won honorable mention for a strawflower flowerbed.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Sam Whitfield, Mrs. Paul Vegas, and Mrs. Robert Hamilton.

Prize winning exhibits will be shown in April at the State Language Fair in Jackson.

Bookmobile tour

Page-Munch

Miss Linda Ann Munch and Jerry William Page, both of Waveland, were united in marriage during an afternoon ceremony at St. Clare's Catholic Church March 27.

Rev. John Reardon, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of John A. Munch and the late Sarah C. Munch and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Page.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length white gown with long sleeves and a high collar.

Headpiece of her fingertip length veil was of chiffon with satin bows and lace roses.

She carried a cascade bouquet of orchids, miniature carnations and gladioli.

Miss Sally Burrows, Opheka, Ala. was maid of honor and Miss Cheryl Lander, Pass Christian, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in apricot crepe floor length gowns with pink brocade flowers. They also wore apricot floppy brimmed hats trimmed with white lace band and apricot chiffon.

The maid of honor carried an oval bouquet of pink miniature carnations and baby's breath and the flower girl carried a white basket filled with lilies of the valley and trimmed with pink ribbons.

Hugo Favre of Bay St. Louis attended the groom as best man. Ushers were Norman Shyoun, Bay St. Louis, John M. Munch, New Orleans, La., Clifford L. Carroll, Waveland, and Doug Burton, Shidell, La. Ring bearer was Ed Watson of Bay St. Louis.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at Jordan River Shores Country Club. The tables were covered in gold and white tablecloths and held candles and spring bouquet floral baskets on gold stands.

Mrs. Carol Burton and Mrs. Beside Anderson acted the couple in receiving guests. Mrs. Burton wore a maroon floor length gown and Mrs.

Anderson wore a navy and white print floor length dress with matching jacket.

For a brief honeymoon trip on the Gulf Coast, the bride wore an aqua knit pantsuit with long sleeves jacket over an aqua and white print top. A corsage of aqua orchids complemented her outfit.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. (Gene) Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Stallings of Gulfport, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Fagaro, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hartley and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Burton and family, Mrs. Catherine DeWald, Mrs. Linda Welch, Chris Griffin, and Mrs. Muriel Murphy all of Shidell, and Mrs. Bessie Anderson, and Diane Ehrig and son all of Mobile, Ala.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Munch and son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Calderone, Mrs. Katherine Upton, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brady, Billy Johnson, Lois Ishman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Munch Jr. and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Munch Jr. and daughter, Joan LeBouef and son, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Steel, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bourgo, Mrs. Angelina Calderone, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mattix, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Munch Jr., June Kuretz, and Bobby Roberts all of New Orleans.

The bride is a medical technologist employed at Shidell Memorial Hospital and the groom is a heavy equipment operator for Magnolia Construction Co. of Baton Rouge, La. presently working in Pass Christian.

Senior High girls' chorus rated superior in District 8

The girls' chorus and sextet of Bay Senior High School were rated superior on Thursday in judging at the District Eight Choral Festival in Biloxi.

The boys' chorus and quartet were adjudicated as being excellent.

The superior rating earned an automatic hike into a choral workshop and concert the following day at Perkins Junior College.

Under the direction of Vice Mason, the Bay girls at the workshop were positioned in combined schools' choruses, changing their efforts by participating in the evening concert.

The superior rated sextet consisted of Betty Tedford, Sandra Bradshaw, Pam Mason, Kathy Koch, Tina Sammartini, and Tammy Caruthers.

The boys' quartet, consisting of the excellent rating, consisted of: Lloyd Shidell, Anthony Sones, Richard Williams, and Ronald Hall.

Bay High science majors read papers at symposium

Band leaders of Bay Senior High School have been named. Missus's second alternate delegate for national competition in the U.S. Army's Junior Science and Humanities Symposium.

Carlin scored the honor after delivering his paper on the Determination of Color in Dress in Cannes to the Mississippi symposium last week at Ole Miss.

Third alternate honors were awarded Patty Payne, also of Bay Senior High, for her work entitled The Effects of Various Household Detergents on Skin Tissue.

A third Bay delegate, Vallery Young, also read a paper at the Ole Miss affair. Her chosen subject was Organic Water Colors.

Accompanied by Bert Barrett, chemistry and physics teacher, the Bay trio were guests of the university during the three-day event. Their papers were entered into competition with those of some 100 state high schools, represented by some 300 students and 100 plus faculty members.

Members of the Harrison-Hatchcock chapter of the University of Mississippi for Women will conduct a dinner-business meeting Thursday night April 8 at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge in Biloxi. Cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Gulf Coast models from Perkins Jr. College will model for the alumni during dinner and special music will be provided by the Meh Ladies from MUW.

The business meeting will be concerned with the election of new officers and the close out of the group's scholarship drive.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Wilbur Dees at 832-5776 in Gulfport. Husbands and dates of alumni are invited as well.

'Sleeping Beauty' tickets on sale; April performances scheduled

Tickets are now available for the ballet "Sleeping Beauty," to be performed by the New Orleans Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra and Delta Festival Ballet April 24 and 25 at the Theatre of the Performing Arts. The spectacular production has been in the planning stage for a year and a half, according to Delta Festival's artistic directors, Joseph and Maria Giacobbe. It is being staged by Fiorella Keane of the American Ballet Theatre in New York and conducted by maestro Werner Torkanowsky.

Ms. Keane, who is ballet mistress for the New York group, will also dance in the Tchaikovsky ballet, along with other members of the ABT. Local performers dancing solo roles are: Gwen Delle Giacobbe, Mary Lynn Lobello, Holly Adams, Tammie Magri, Melanie Montalto, Sue Ellen Stewart, Joseph Giacobbe, Gretchen Newberger, Denise Pons, Kerry Daigle, David Wedemeyer, Alden Adams, Barbara Waguespack, Thomas Quintini, Cutting Jahncke, Ozzie Laporte, Rick Kelly and Michael Brown.

Tickets are available from Werlein's Box Office on Canal, Mushroom Too on Lowerline, Oakwood Record Center and all D.H. Holmes ticket centers, or by mail from the Symphony Office: 203 Carondelet Street, Suite 903, New Orleans, La. 70130.

Applications accepted now for Miss Flame contestants

Girls between the ages of 16 and 20 are asked to send in the coupon from today's edition of the Echo if they wish to be contestants in the Miss Flame contest scheduled in October during Fire Prevention Week.

In this year's contest, entrants will be judged on poise, personality, charm and in evening gown competition.

Fire Prevention Week will include a parade through the streets of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, a luncheon, and coronation of Miss Flame.

The event is sponsored by the Hancock County Fireman's Association.

St. Clare's school news

Registration for students presently attending St. Clare School, as well as relatives planning to enter will be held April 5-7.

Registration for new students will be April 8-9 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the school office.

Second grade students will receive their First Communion April 4 at the 9 a.m. Mass in St. Clare Church.

Pearlington Notes

ONAMAE MCARTHUR

Andrew and Evelyn Fiorella are proud parents of Trece Marie, born March 11. Trece Marie is the sister of Andrew Jr., Paul and Louis Michel Fiorella and granddaughter of Edwin Remy.

Mr. and Mrs. Marks Wilkinson Sr. visited Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wilkinson Sr. of Bay Minette, Ala.

The Dawsey family invites all relatives and friends to attend their Annual Reunion and Picnic at the NASA Test Site on April 25, the Sunday following Easter Sunday.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Nancy Meghee who is in a New Orleans Hospital. She is the sister of Mrs. Edith Cuevas.

Congratulations to students from Pearlington who were winners in the Science Fair at Bay St. Louis. Mark Hardee won first place in Botany 4 and overall in Botany. Valarie Young won first place in Chemistry 5 and overall in 11th and 12th grade. Don Smith won third place in Earth Science.

Congratulations to Miss Karen Spears and Mr. Randy Jackson who were married Saturday.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Jewel Green in the hospital.

Our sympathy to family and friends of Mrs. Emma Dean, a longtime resident — of Pearlington.

Labor Relations Act affect on nursing is program topic

The "National Labor Relations Act: Its Effect on Nursing" is the subject of an April 9 educational program sponsored by the Mississippi Nurses' Association. The program has been approved for five contact hours through the organizations' continuing education recognition program.

Ms. Marsha Kelly, RN, Hattiesburg, chairperson for the program committee, said that the need for such an educational offering designed primarily for nurses became apparent shortly after the NLRA was amended in August, 1974. She said that prior to the amendment employees of non-profit health care facilities were not covered by the Act, thus few unions attempted to organize these employees.

"Now, however, we see labor unions becoming very active in other states in health care facilities, but because most health care professionals have never been exposed to union activities, many do not know their rights or responsibilities under the Federal Law. MNA's purpose is to provide information to registered nurses so that they can make appropriate action if union organizing activities begin in their place of employment," she said.

Ms. Kelly said that while the Association does not advocate union activity or collective bargaining by nurses, it does recognize collective bargaining as "one method of problem solving usually resorted to when all else fails."

The educational offering will include components on the NLRA, public employee bargaining laws, mediation, the organizing process, and collective bargaining.

Dr. Roy Moore, chairman, Department of Management, University of Southern Mississippi, and John Maxey, a Jackson attorney specializing in labor law, are major program participants. Ms. Peggy Payne, RN, E & GW committee member will also participate. Pre-registration is necessary and should be made by April 1. More information may be obtained from the Mississippi Nurses' Association, 135 Bounds Street, Jackson, MS 39208. Telephone (601) 366-1416.

Waveland's newest enterprise

The city of Waveland's wastewater treatment plant, located only a few blocks from Coleman Ave., has been in operation since Dec. 8, 1975. The plant was under construction for two years and cost approximately $5 million.

Hygiene is watchword

Plant utilizes new technology

By CAROLE LANGE
Words like: sewage, grit remover, and sludge rake may bring rather unpleasant thoughts to many people's minds, but to Waveland Mayor Johnny Longo they represent years of planning which have resulted in the "most technically advanced" wastewater treatment plant to be built in the city.

The new plant, in operation since Dec. 8, 1975, is located only a few blocks from Coleman Ave., the city's main street.

Being what it is, a plant for the treatment of raw sewage, one would think that the odor connected with this type operation would bar the plant's location in a densely populated area. But, quite to the contrary, there is no odor at all at the site, and the gleaming tanks and well kept grounds belie the actual activity constantly underway. Plant Superintendent Alphonse Favre explained that raw sewage is transferred to the plant through an underground collection system consisting of 40 miles of pipes and trunk lines. He said pipes used in the system vary in size from eight to 24 inches in diameter, and 24 lift stations are located throughout the city to expedite the flow.

Raw sewage first enters the grit remover, where all insoluble items are removed or "raked" from the water. From there, the water is pumped to a wet well for storage until it is pumped into an aeration tank.

The aeration tank, an imposing structure, is equipped with machines that keep the water constantly swirling, or agitating, and supplied with oxygen. Oxygen is supplied to the water, Favre said, to keep bacteria growth down. "If we didn't add it (oxygen), then the water would become stagnant," he said.

From the aeration tank, the water travels to the clarification tank, where a long arm, or sludge rake, moves across the water's surface to remove any scum or deposits.

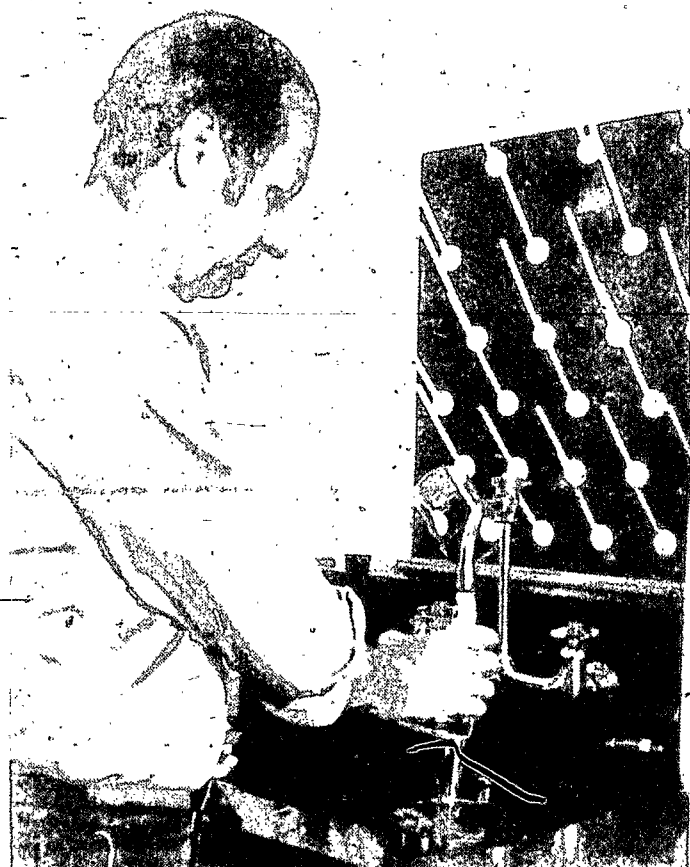

The holding pond is the water's next destination where the water remains in the pond for approximately 18 hours to let any remaining sediment sink to the bottom. The water is then pumped into one of two huge drying beds, where grass grows in profusion, and from there to a digester where it is again agitated and aerated.

After that final step, it is then released for final discharge into Watt's Bayou as clean, clear, and unpolluted water.

Favre said the plant currently processes 533,000 gallons of water daily, "but we're equipped to handle three times that amount," he added. Based on population growth estimates, Longo said the plant is now programmed to handle the Bay-Waveland area, through 1995. "But it could go 20 years either way," he added.

Prior to construction of the wastewater treatment plant, Waveland residents were forced to use septic tanks for the storage and disposal of raw sewage. More often than not, the ground became saturated as more people moved into the area; and again, more often than not, the overflow ended up in ditches and on the city streets. "The ground saturation with a septic tank located on every 50 foot lot is unreal," Longo said.

He said the tanks cost approximately $1,000 to install but the upkeep and maintenance could easily exceed that," he added. "Besides, you never knew if they were going to work."

"Water that's gone through the treatment plant is clean enough to drink, according to Favre's daily analyses."

"We were in a real quandary," he said "when the federal government banned the construction of new septic tanks for cities our size. The law required that we had to have an alternate system by 1977, but we had no idea how we'd pay for it."

Then Hurricane Camille devastated the city in 1969, and federal aid came pouring in. "Actually, Camille was a blessing in disguise because federal agencies, like the Economic Development Administration (EDA), were able to participate due to the disaster clause," the mayor said.

Of the approximate $4 million needed to build the treatment plant, including the collection system at a cost of $2.6 million, federal agencies bore 70 percent of the total cost with the city responsible for the remaining 30 percent.

"Due to the disaster, we were able to obtain grants at interest rates way under the limit to help pay our share," Longo said, adding that the city has paid two $25,000 installments on the 25 year payment schedule which began in 1975. He said revenue from the customer's user charge will be used to repay the note.

Since construction actually began two years ago, the plant has been plagued with problems. Engineers for the collection system changed three times, and those for the treatment plant changed twice.

In the case of the collection system, Travelers Indemnity Bonding Co. eventually took over due to the performance failure of the preceding engineers, Byrd and Wilson, and Wilcon, both of Shreveport, La. Longo said the failures included delays in construction and craftsmanship that was "not up to par."

"We're actually a year behind schedule in completion of the plant because of those delays in the collection system," he said.

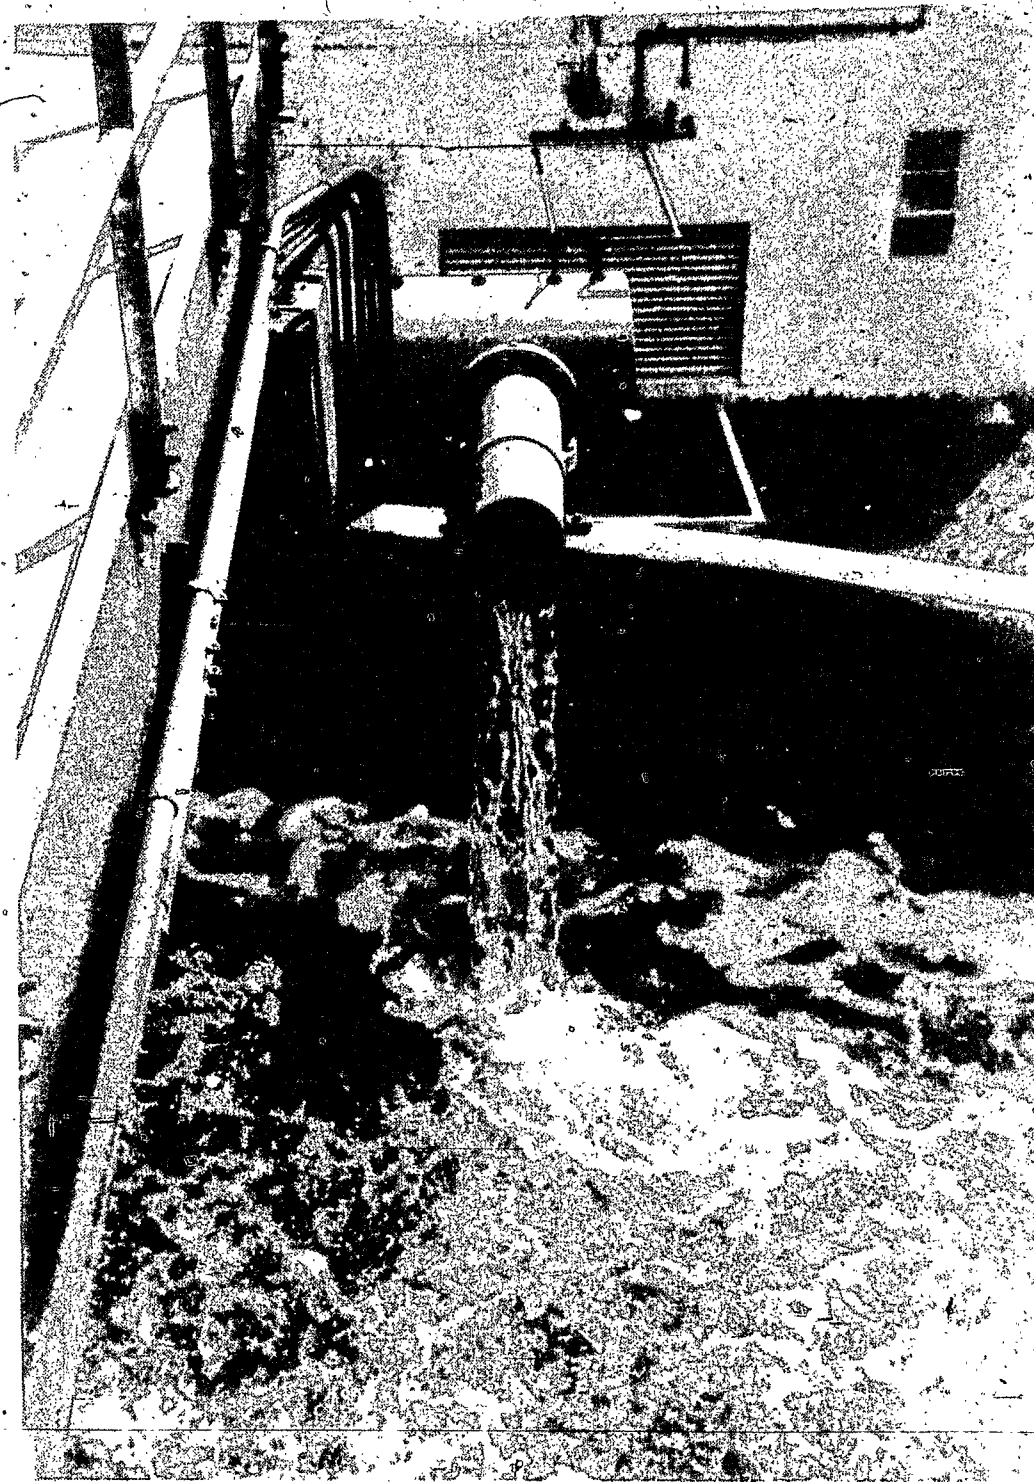

Lewis and Eaton of Jackson replaced Dorn Blanton Associates of New Orleans as engineers for the treatment plant, "because Dorn Blanton failed repeatedly to come up with a total project cost," according to the mayor.

Contractor throughout the entire construction period was Wallace Industrial Contractors of Pascagoula, which Longo credits with doing an "excellent job."

Longo also credits former Mayor Garfield Ladner with successfully selling the idea of a new treatment plant to the citizens. Ladner, who died before seeing his project completed, was mayor when the project began.

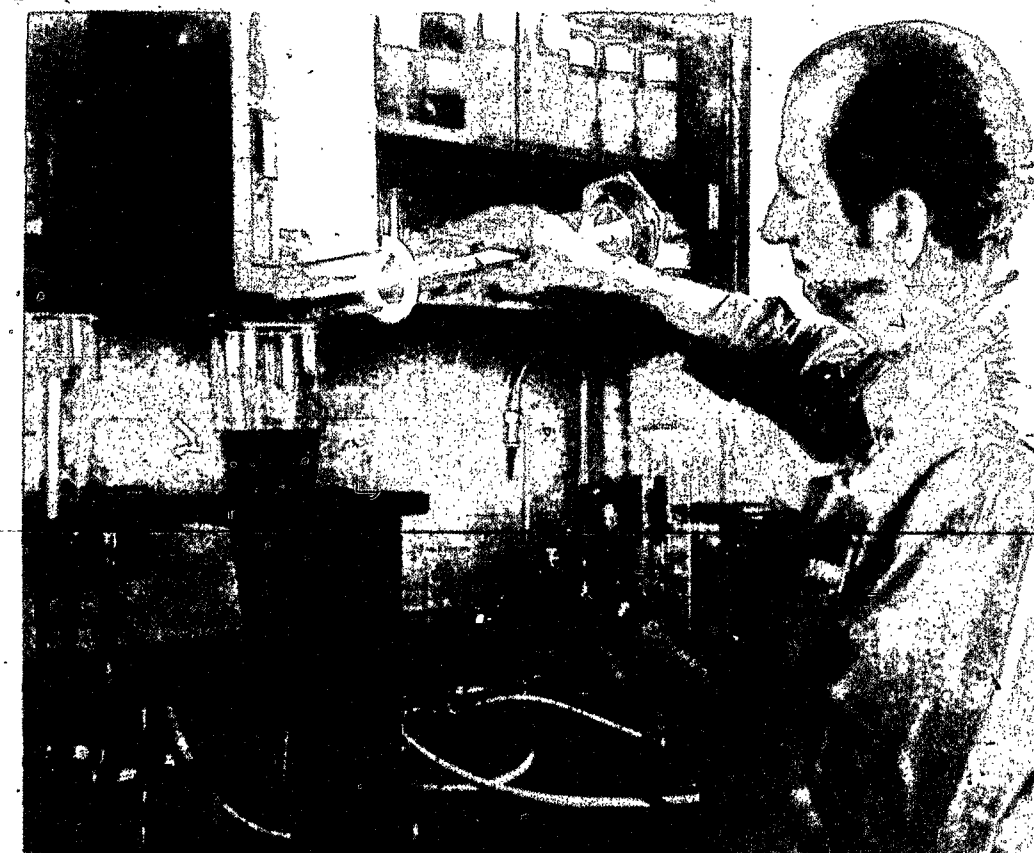

Longo said 80 percent of the city's consumers have hooked into the new system. Sewage fees are presently about $6.75 per month, Longo said, and added that the hook-up fee, which could cost as much as $225, will be provided by the city free of charge until January, 1977.

"Up until now, the response has been great," Longo said, "and we anticipate that everyone in the service area will be on the system by this summer."

Rock trackmen dominate HNC

BAY ST. LOUIS-ST. Stanislaus outpowered the Hancock North Central Hawks 102-25 in the first track meet between the two schools here Monday.

Stanislaus accumulated firsts in 11 of the 14 events to completely dominate the first year Hawk team coached by Joe Willford. The Hawks did take firsts in the shotput, the mile relay and the 180 high hurdles.

Stanislaus will meet Bay High this afternoon in a 3:45 p.m. meet, while Hancock will participate in a meet with Piquette, Tylertown, Dexter, and Pass Christian, next Tuesday.

SSC. OLA netters edge opponents

St. Stanislaus and Our Lady's Academy edged Pascagoula 3-2 in high school tennis action Monday. The Rockchaw and OLA 'B' teams also recorded a 3-0 win.

In boy's singles play, Mark Stipulski defeated Mark Hagler 6-2, 6-2 while the Stanislaus doubles team of Tommy Wild and Alan Lagarde lost to Robert Gaines and Jeff Phillips 6-3, 1-6, 4-6.

Lis Lagarde easily disposed of her opponent Anne Partonberry 6-0, 6-0, and in girls' doubles Tricia Dickinson and Becky Benvenuti won over Martha Byrd and Leime Anderson 6-0, 6-2.

In the mixed doubles, Phil Schmidt and Anne McCarthy lost to Mark Ledner and Leah Weeks 3-6, 4-6.

Ryan Ostrumie won the boy's B team singles disposing of Louis Erlich 6-0, 6-3, while Grant Chandler and Matt Stipulski won the boys' doubles defeating Randy

We've put fine food on America's table

WINN DIXIE joins the salute to America in its 200th year. And as WINN DIXIE celebrates America, we salute you, the American people. After all, it has been folks like you who have built America and made it great.

What better time than this bicentennial year to reminisce about some of those great Americans who have contributed so much to the world.

Who taught the world how to fly? Start with the Wright Brothers. And who isn't proud of Charles Lindbergh and his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, crossing the Atlantic in 1927. Then, just 42 years later, Neil Armstrong, another great American, was traveling through space to walk on the moon.

And Americans have always contributed to moving the state of living around the world. In 1913, Henry Ford started his own version of the assembly line to build automobiles and changed the face of America. Then in 1923, Willis H. Carrier developed a compact, noiseless compressor that made air conditioning practical for houses, skyscrapers and eventually cars.

But America was a giving nation, too. Our contributions to the United Nations and to the world through such groups as the Red Cross have helped improve conditions in poor countries all the globe. American doctors working around the world have brought an end to dreaded diseases like smallpox. Yes, Americans have taught the world how to give.

America's tables for over 50 years . . .

contributed to improving the standard of living. In 1913, Henry D. Winn started his own business and changed the name to Winn-Dixie. He developed a chain of stores that made a difference in the lives of the people of the South.

And, too, our contributions to the peace and prosperity of the world through such groups as the Peace Corps and the World Bank. We have brought the world closer together and made it a better place to live.

And through it all, Americans are a people who love to have fun. We love to laugh and sing and we certainly won't forget the folks in the fields of entertainment and sports, people who made it their business to perform, to entertain and to bring joy to millions around the world. People still talk about the legendary baseball hero Babe Ruth and recall fondly performances by the late Jack Benny.

WINN DIXIE celebrates all of these people from America's past, but most of all WINN DIXIE salutes you, the people who are making America grow and prosper today.

Coast Invitational tournament scheduled

The Coast Invitational Tennis Tournament will be held at Diamondhead April 3rd beginning at 8:30 a.m. High schools in District 8 will be participating in the tournament. Trophies, donated by Hancock Bank, will be awarded to the winners in each of the five events — boys' singles, girls' singles, boys' doubles, girls' doubles and mixed doubles.

Jimmy Cantrell of St. Martin High School of Biloxi will probably be seeded number one in boys' singles and his opponent of Our Lady's Academy of Bay St. Louis will probably be seeded number one in girls' singles, tournament officials said.

Four players or teams will be seeded in each event. Schools participating in the tournament include Bay High, Gulfport East, Gulfport High, Long Beach High, Moss Point High, Notre Dame High, Ocean Springs High, Pascagoula High, Pass Christian High, St. John High, St. Martin High, St. Stanislaus, Our Lady's Bluffs High, Coast Episcopal Academy, and Sacred Heart

Tiger nine win two, drop two

The Bay High Tigers won two and lost two in baseball action this past week.

The Tigers, who dropped their first four games of the season to Harrison Central, Ocean Springs, George County and St. Stanislaus, battled back last Friday to record their first win, downing Hancock North Central 3-1. The Bay then edged Poplarville 10-3 in the bottom half of the double header.

Hancock outlasted the Tigers 20-15 in a rematch Monday and St. Stanislaus recorded their second win over the Bay Wednesday afternoon.

Niles Blaize was credited with the win over Poplarville, giving up five hits. Bill Ginn led the Tiger batters getting three hits in four trips to the plate including a double and two triples for six RBIs.

Frank Henry went the distance for the Tigers against Hancock in last Friday's opener. Jeffrey Reed, Jerry Townsend, and Mike Richardson collected three hits apiece for the Tigers.

Henry gave up three hits and struck out nine for the win.

The Tigers will meet East Central in a home game beginning at 3:30 p.m. Monday afternoon.

Hancock outlasts Bay in slugfest

Hancock North Central scored 20 runs on 10 hits Monday to trim Bay High 20-15 in high school baseball at Dedeaux field in Dedeaux.

Hancock pitcher Barry Arcement was credited with the win. Losing pitcher was Ricky Adams.

Levon Nelson led the Hawks with four hits for five trips to the plate, including two home runs. Mark Ladner and Danny Ladner each had two hits apiece for the Hawks.

For the Tigers, Mike

Richardson, Jeffrey Reed, and Adrian Favre each had two hits. Roy Ruhr had a homerun and Chris Johnson also had one hit.

The Hawks, who are fielding their first baseball team in the history of the school, are now 1-1 for the young season. The Bay decisioned the Hawks 3-1 in an earlier meeting last Friday.

Hancock will play Long Beach next Monday night at 7 p.m. at Dedeaux field. The Hawks are coached by Irvin Farve and David Ward.

Tigers edge Ocean Springs

By KEITH FOLSE

The Bay High Tennis Team upped their record to four wins and no losses as they defeated Ocean Springs 3-2 Tuesday afternoon at the Greyhounds' courts. This was the second win over Ocean Springs for Bay High. The Tigers came out on top 4-1 in an earlier meeting.

Bay High won by easily dominating all three doubles events. Bay High's girls' doubles team of Sharon Arnold and Lucinda Kidd defeated Clair Cornelius and Judy Rogers 6-2, 6-3, while Frank Henry and Chuck Newland claimed the boys' doubles match with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Jamo Carter and Tom Sikora. In mixed doubles, Keith Folse and Donna Sick won over Bart Williams and Betsy Broome in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

Ocean Springs won both of the singles events. Bub Bellemey edged Roderick Singleton 6-4, 6-4 in the boys' contest. In the closest match of the day, Rhonda Balus outlasted Noella Williams after splitting sets, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2.

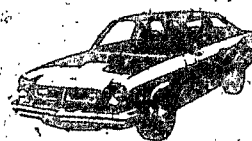

Miss Williams had won the earlier meeting, which was also decided by splitting sets. The Greyhound B-team came out on top 4-1. Bay High's lone win came in girls' doubles as Donna Ralph and Celeste Lizana kept their record unblemished by defeating Neva Rogers and Lou Groseys 6-4, 6-0. All Greyhound wins were decided in straight sets.

Bay High is 4-0 and meets St. Stanislaus-OLA team this afternoon. The varsity will play at Bay High while the B-team plays at St. Stanislaus. Match time is 2:45.
